

THE "TITANIC" AFFIRMATIVE

Way back in 1912, there was a great ship—called "unsinkable;" it was the Titanic.

Interestingly enough, an author wrote a story a few years earlier about an unsinkable boat which struck an iceberg and sunk; the name he gave his ship was the Titan.

However, I digress; the point is that there were rich, beautiful people on board this ship. It was her maiden voyage, and it sailed with masterful arrogance through the cold waters.

The captain stood proudly on the foredeck, surveying the choppy waters and feeling his great vessel cutting through the dark seas with almost ferocious veracity. He heard in the distance the laughter of the people as they partied, and celebrated both their richness and the bounty of the vessel upon which they sailed.

The drank, and danced, and sang far into the evening—and as they did, the hands on the clock continued to approach midnight.

Their laughing faces; the gaiety of the music; the tapping of their dancing feet....

The haughty look on the face of the captain as he sailed her surely forward in to the darkness....

The great ship moved forward with surety, as the clock approached midnight.

Then the claxon sounded, and midnight had suddenly come upon them—and at that precise second, the titanic struck an iceberg, carrying many of the revelers to an icy death in the dark waters below.

In an instant, the party was over, and death had overtaken them; in a moment, the revels had ended, and their souls were required of them—and they never saw it coming.

Never stopped singing; never stopped laughing; never believed they could be sunk, believing the report of the shipmasters—and then suddenly, the chimes at midnight...

PARRC Research believes the true time—not the time on the face of your clock—is one minute to midnight, deep into the twilight of the end times.

Are you laughing, singing, and dancing in the face of the gathering darkness, unaware that suddenly the fulfillment of the prophecies of Revelation may be upon us...now? Are you ready, or not? Have you given your life to Christ, or not? Do you still have time, or not?

Don't say you did not know, for the word has been given; it is one minute to midnight; party on.
